EVERYBODY IS LOOKING TOWARD LEMON GROVE

Vol. 4, No. 39 — LEMON GROVE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1952 — 5c PER COPY

Who's Who in Lemon Grove

John Landesco is a soft-spoken kindly appearing man. He is the last person you would suspect of having lived ten years with top Chicago gangsters during the "beer war" days.

Actually, John has been living with criminals longer than that—but not on the side of crime.

He was one of the organizers of a public vocational education system that has become the pattern for vocational schools all over the country. Starting in Milwaukee before the first war he developed what was then known as an "apprentice" program. After the war, in which he served, he was called on to set up a model school for education for disabled GIs, a forerunner of the WWII veteran school program.

Between these jobs he attended University of Chicago studying criminology. This led to appointments on the Illinois Board of Pardons and Paroles and executive director of the Organized Central State Parole and Probation Association and president of the American Parole Association.

These assignments gave him a chance to study gangsters first hand. He disavowed formal observation that had been the practice in the study of criminal problems up to then and for almost ten years he actually lived among them.

He knows hundreds of stories about the gangsters of prohibition days. Many of these men are back in the news these days in the spotlight of Congressional investivations.

Because of his reputation, gangsters confided in him. Gangsters felt that John would present them in a fairer light when an eruption took place on the crime front. Their gripe was usually against politicixns whom they claimed were "exploiting" them.

John is writing a book on the subject at present. He has already written several books and papers which are used as handbooks across the nation.

At present he and his wife Mary tend their home at 1910 Skyline Drive and keep a trailer in readiness to take off for whatever part of the country that beckons.

"Rougher Element" Invades Republican Ladies Gathering

They called it a meeting of the Republican Women's Club but a healthy proportion of "the boys" showed up for the monthly meeting Monday at Friendship Hall. One third of the attendance was male, which added little to the beauty of the affair.

Four Republican candidates for Assembly gave brief addresses and Luther Hussey, candidate for Justice Court Judge fas biven an introduction.

Mrs. L. D. Newton presided.

BURNING PERMITS NECESSARY BEFORE YOU LIGHT IT

Fire Commissioner Chan Mason reports that nearly 75 persons have obtained burning permits during the past two weeks. Information as to permitted may be obtained at the how, when and where burning is Fire Station, Lincoln and School Lane.

Fire personnel are continuing routine inspection of potential fire hazards as a safety measure. According to Chief Carmody, inspections will include corner property where high growing shrubs interfere with visibility at intersections.

Griffin Voted Back On School Board In Meager Turnout

Harry Griffen has been returned to office on the School Board as an incumbent following the District election last week, it was unofficially announced Peg Darroch, public relations chairman for the school district said that official results can not be given until after the Board of Trustees meets at the Superintendent's office to take a count. This is a state law, she said.

Indications are that Griffen received 178 votes; Chan Mason, 9 votes by write-in, and only one or two other write-in votes were cast.

School officials were at a loss to explain the lack of interest in the election, claiming that notices were sent to the parents of each child in school as a reminder of the election.

Harry Griffen, who ran unopposed, has served on the School Board since April, 1949. His original term was by appointment of the County Superintendent to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of John Van Gilsey.

Davis Market Opening Expected To Touch Off Lemon Grove Business Boom

The dream of many Lemon Grove residents is coming into being this week. A more complete shopping center and a fast growing business district is helping to make the dream more rosy. What it means to the average householder is that the long trek to other communities for places to park and shop is over.

Spotlighting the business activity is the opening of Davis Food Center, one of the largest markets in San Diego County.

The market opens this week with a fanfare of free merchandise and prizes and what the operators describe as the "lowest prices on the west coast."

In conjunction with the Davis opening, most business firms in Lemon Grove are offering merchandise and prices with an eye toward making it a carnival weekend to attract business frem all over the Heartland area.

The Davis opening will see a television, stove, washer, baskets of groceries, appliances and many other items given to opening week visitors.

A group of Lemon Grove merchants tieing in with the new market's opening are running congratulatory messages and are underwriting the distribution of 1500 additional copies of the Review to be circulated free to residents of American and Brookside Homes areas.

Estimates are that business traffic will increase by approximately 30 per cent as a result of the unified effort.

The picture grows rosier due to other storrooms in various stages of completion, adjacent to McGuire and Mangano, in the 7900 block on Broadway. Two showrooms will be ready for occupancy in June. One will house an appliance firm while the other will be occupied by a paint outlet.

Sol Blanc, with a bank of stores on main street opposite the Review, has three occupants under consideration. Anderson's building in the 7600 block on Broadway has a nearly complete building with two showrooms available.

In the 7800 block on Broadway, four showrooms in two separate buildings will get started within a week. A liquorstore, a delicatessen and a department store have already made commitments for occupancy.

There are other straws in the wind which indicate a boom in business in Lemon Grove. Business pays a high share of the cost of operating a community so it appears that halcyon days are ahead for Lemon Grove.

Inside Goodwin

by Max Goodwin

I guess everybody read where our representatives in Washington voted themselves a cut in taxes. This follows by a few months a raise which they generously gave themselves.

I can't bring myself to blame them too much for their actions. All of us are looking over our shoulder at the days when taxes and living costs were lower.

Representatives and Senators do not have a high income when compared with incomes of business executives. As a matter of fact many capable executives refuse to enter politics because the income level is low.

An old theory, one which might work, would be to develop a method of removing any semblance of graft from political office. This would give the taxpayer huge sums. The next step would be to raise salaries of executive office-holders to the point where good men from business would be attracted to take jobs.

This would cut graft and put most departments of the country on a business-like basis.

Even if there were no savings, it would be a welcome switch to see good business practices used in running many of the governmental agencies.

HISTORICAL DAYS TROPHIES are examined by Bette Jo Bradley (Miss San Diego) and Marilyn Allen. The trophies are a few of approximately 100 awards which will be made during the forthcoming San Diego County Historical Days parade to be held at 2 p.m. June 14, on Broadway, San Diego. The Historical Days celebration will open Friday night, June 13, with dedication ceremonies and pageantry at Old Town, and will continue on through the Saturday parade and Historical Days dinner Saturday night at the Balboa club, to close with colorful all day ceremonies and entertainment in Balboa Park Sunday according to F. Miles Nagel, president and E. Earl Allen general chairman of the event.

LEMON GROVE BUSINESS CENTER IS HOLDING OPEN HOUSE

Many Lemon Grove homes are receiving the REVIEW for the first time this week. It is part of local merchant's plan to dramatize the fact that Lemon Grove's business section has grown up.

Complete marketing facilities are available. You have a multiple choice in almost any kind of business you want to patronize. A score of new businessses have begun during the past six months in Lemon Grove. Many of the older ones have expanded. There are more to come.

In the meanwhile, shopping is no easier than the effort to find parking and Lemon Grove's business plazes offer large areas of convenient, free parking. In many instances, parked vehicles may be seen from inside the store. That helps solve the baby-sitting problem.

Keynoting a summer long "open-house" program for the benefit of nearby residents who have not yet enjoyed Lemon Grove's shopping advantages, the theme, "It's fun to park and shop in Lemon Grove" is being proven to shoppers.

All Lemon Grove invites you to some shopping. It's a friendly business community ... and prices are low as, or lower, than downtown.

FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

AGRICULTURE'S LABOR NEEDS

The continuing concern of California farmers over an adequate labor force doubtless appears puzzling to nonrural people of Lemon Grove. Knowing that farm labor even at peak employment periods is but a small fraction of the State's total labor force, they wonder why farmers do not solve their labor problems simply by offering high wages and attractive working conditions. If it were as simple as that, farmers would have solved these problems long ago.

Of a peak civilian employment total for the State of around 4,700,000 workers, farmers had only about 528,500, but could have used 26,500 more. At slackest employment periods, farmers need some 200,000 fewer workers. So when the need is the greatest, farmers require about 11 percent of the total labor force.

FARM WORK IS STRENUOUS

Because of the very nature of agriculture, most farm jobs are strenuous, fatiguing, and involve long hours of work in the hot mid-summer sun, or require long hours of bending over, or going up and down ladders. This is real work and few persons relish it.

Most of these jobs are seasonal. Some jobs may last only a couple of weeks in a locality, while others may extend for a month or two. When these are completed, there may be a lengthy period in which there is no work for the extra workers.

It is not possible for many of our major specialty crops to provide year-round employment for our additional peak-season workers.

JOB TIME IS CRITICAL

Many products are highly perishable and must be quickly harvested. These crucial operations need to be done rapidly not only to avoid losses but to secure products of the best possible quality.

When there is a failure in any of these vital operations not only has the farmer lost in effort, planning, and out-of-pocket expenses and the use of his capital investment for a season, but the public has lost an important contribution of necessary food or fiber.

PUBLIC COST CONSCIOUS

While the public requires and demands these products, it is also exceedingly conscious of their cost. So the farmer—in addition to facing all of the risks of weather, pests, uncertain labor supply, and uncertain market—has to manage so as to keep his costs of production as loow as possible.

Labor being such an important item, farmers feel obliged to be constantly on the lookout for workers who can be depended upon to lend a willing hand to the arduous crop production job, as the farmer himself feels obliged to do.

They are sold by leading stores in each community," Roman said. "The machines are precision made by experienced American labor using finest materials in the machines and best wood for cabinets."

To publicize the new service, a nationally-known brand of men's and ladies' wrist watches will be given with the purchase of each Domestic Sewing Machine," Roman said.

Car Check Avoids Accidents

A needless automobile accident which snuffed out the lives of five persons this week gave the California Highway Patrol a tragic example to illustrate its recent suppesstion that motorists keep their cars in good shape.

The five victims—a father, his three children, including a three-months-old baby, and a neighbor boy—died when their car plunged into an irrigation canal in a northern California rural area. Blame for the tragedy was fixed on "defective steering gear."

Patrol officers declared that sudden mechanical failures are rare and those appearing to be "sudden" are usually the result of a long period of neglect.

Regular automobile inspections by competent mechanics can uncover potentially dangerous conditions long before there's a chance for them to cause accidents, they added.

GROUP FORMED TO BACK WESTOVERS OPINION

A couple of editions ago the REVIEW carried an article about Steve Westover of the Lemon Grove Lumber Co. Spotlighted was his interest in art. In it Steve deplored modern art of certain types, in that almost nobody could understand what the artist was attempting to portray.

This week, according to Steve, steps have been taken to correct any such future failure to understand. An association was formed and duly registered in the recorder's office.

"Bet you a cup of coffee," said Steve, "that they formed the group in self defense after visiting the S. D. Art Gallery in Balboa Park and viewed the S. D. Art Educator's Exhibit."

Name of the group, explanitory in itself is "The Understandable Art Association of San Diego."

An additional showpiece is a large piece of meteor which fell in the midwest a number of years ago.

The display may be seen from the street.
